The close-knit community of Belle Glade was shocked and many in disbelief when the news of a murder-suicide of two of the town's residents circulated quickly. Johnnie Duce, 38, had shot his wife, Mary, 37, and then turned the gun on himself.

According to reports from the Fort Pierce Police Department, Mrs. Duce attended a choir celebration at

City police officers to vote Aug. 18 on union

By Brenda Bunting

Police officers in the City of Belle Glade will decide Aug. 18 whether or not to go union.

For two years a percentage of the officers have been members of the Fraternal Order of Police. FOP District Director Paul Fafieta says that number is now 90 percent of the force.

He told commissioners Mon-day night he has filed unfair labor practices against the city because of the "shenanigans because of the "shenanigans the administration is putting on.

He says anti-union posters placed at the police department intimidate union members and they are being bad-gered.

In a later interview, Mr. Fafieta also said city rules which require officers to live inside the city limits are unfair and this is one of the major prob-lems for the officers.

Three challenge incumbants in Belle Glade commission race

By Brenda Bunting

Three political newcomers are challenging the two incum-bents up for reelection in Belle Glade's Sept. 13 city commission race.

Larry Konchellah and Den-nis McCarthy will be facing current commissioner Dan Bythwood in the seat A race. Carl Seibert will challenge Commissioner Harma Miller for seat B.

Mr. Konchellah, 40, of 600 S.W. 10th Street, is a labor and employment counselor with the Palm Beach County Private Industry Council.

He is president of the Glades Area NAACP and pres-ident of the Katherine Price Foundation. He is a member of Kappa Alpha Psi fraternity and St. John First Baptist

Mr. Konchellah, who is origally from East Africa and received his U.S. citizenship this year, said he is running for office because several things need changing. 'Unemployment needs to be substantially reduced,' he said. 'The survival of our city will depend on how fast we can attract industries that will create industries that will create industries that will create which in turn will revitalize the economy, he said.

He says he 'wants to save the city from extinction' by attracting industry which will in turn increase the city's tax base. He also plans to support and enhance the existing recreational programs that serve the youth of the community. More job opportunities for the city's handicapped citizens is another of his goals.

Apparently no one has bothered to come to this area to see the deep holes in these well-paved streets. I'm afraid someone is going to get hurt or have a terrible accident trying to dodge a hole in the streets. What are we, as working parents, suppose to do when school starts and our children have to walk to school? Somebody's child may get hit by a driver-who was simply trying to dodge a hole in the street. This would be a shameful and senseless accident on the county's behalf because they have ignored this situation since they came out once and filled the holes, which did no good.

Speak Out is our last resort. Please help.

Speak Out is our last resort. Please help. Editor's note: We spoke with Raymon Plank, supervisor for the county road department for the Glades area. He said the county is responsible for that road BUT since the new high school is being built behind the 715 Mobile Home Park, the Palm Beach County School Board agreed to maintain that road until construction is finished. The building contractor, Morganti Construction, fixed the road one time. Mr. Plank agrees the road is badly in need of new repairs but he is unable to get an answer when he calls them. He said "If that road is not fixed in one week, we (the county) will go in and fix the road."
Thank you for calling Speak Out. I'm sure your neighbors thank you also.

U.S. Sugar committed to helping displaced workers

By Robert Buker
Senior Vice President
United States Sugar Corporation
One of the great attributes of farm nities has always been that during s One of the great attributes of farming communities has always been that during any adversity everyone pulls together. This certainly has been in evidence since the announcement last month that South Bay Growers would be closing on Sept. 4. In the month since the announcement, there has been an outpouring of offers of assistance from businesses, covernment and assistance from businesses, government agen-cies and private organizations, public officials, civic leaders, community groups and private individuals have come forward to share their

Hundreds of South Bay employees have come for interviews and counseling at the Job Assistance Center located in the former administrative offices of South Bay Growers. Employers with job opportunities have posted them at the center. Many South Bay employees are currently interviewing for jobs and a number have signed up for special retraining programs that are being made available.

Public officials, especially those in South Bay, led by Mayor Clarence Anthony, and members of led by Mayor Clarence Anthony, and members of the compassion, led by Commissioner Ken Foster, have taken leadership roles in conducting an aggressive search for alternate job producing businesses to locate in South Bay. The first fruits of the effort weal announced last week when a decision was announced to locate a $34 million prison with 250 to 300 jobs in South Bay. U.S. Sugar agreed to sell a site for the prison, the first time in many years that the company has given up productive farm land for any other use.

We do not want in any way to gloss over the seriousness of the situation due to the job losses reated by the closing of South Bay Growers.
Nor do we want to paint an unrealistic picture $\square$ job prospects in the immediate future. The full impact of this situation has yet to be felt because most employees are still being paid and many have additional pay and severance benefits coming. Also, many seasonal workers who previously worked during the hartyest season have not yet come back to South Bay from their summer jobs.

We are not perfect, we make mistakes, but we

summer jobs.

We are not perfect, we make mistakes, but we are trying our best to help those who have been laid off. The situation is made worse when there are a lot of rumors going around that are false.

Citizens and their community

By Bridget Barbree Fourth place winner in the Florida League of Cities Essay

Home rule is a limited auto omy in internal affairs by a dependent political unit which allows the city to set up taxes through water bills and electric bills enabling the community to provide services such as sewage treatment, water treat-ment and garbage collection. Home rule brings a sense of pride to our community because citizens have a part in what goes on in their munici-pality.

City residents have a direct say in what services are provided. Each year the city draws up a budget which sets up the services that will be rendered. vices that will be rendered. These services are funded based on the tax the city knows it's going to receive from the county, state, and the estimated tax on the water bills, and sewage bills. After all this consideration, the services are then provided. In most cases, the city offers every service that is requested if the city is able to provide it. In case a citizen recommends an additional service, it would come before a commission an additional service, it would come before a commission meeting, and the citizens would contact the city manager or an elected official and inform them of the service that they would like to have funded. The community then agrees or discreese that it's a viable ser-vice to the community. If agreed upon, the city staff would figure out how to pay for would figure out how to pay for it as far as payroll and equipment is concerned. If it is viable, city officials then Citizens can take part in their community by attend-ing these meetings. There are many different committee meetings community members can attend if a service is desired.

Mosquito control, which is Mosquito control, which is very important in South Florida, is yet another service provided. There are two types of mosquito spray. One is by truck and the other is aerial. The problem with mosquito spray is that the city is restricted by environmental laws on what chemicals are used, what the make-up is and what the concentration is, and when you can and can't spray. Sometimes the city does not spray in a particular area until they receive complaints. For example, if the See City government, page 5 See City government, page 5

Danella, 15, has a twin brother, Daniel, and the two-some will be attending Glades Central Community High School this school term. Danella said she plans to run track in high school. However, now that school is out, Danella continues her training regimen at home with Daniel.

Besides training, she's doing what many other teenagers her age are doing now: "just sitting around the house chilling out."
